Positioning & Regime

Was today bullish or bearish, read through positioning: out-of-the-money put/call volume (hedging vs chasing, daily) and short %-of-float (squeeze fuel; exchange data, biweekly) explain the character of the day's move — squeeze rebound, hedged advance, conviction selling. Under evaluation — logged daily, drives no scores.

Basket	OTM P/C	Short Flt	Day	Today's Read
Memory (DRAM/NAND/HBM)	1.33	5.7%	+16.86%	Bullish — short-squeeze rebound — shorts/puts were loaded into the selloff and fueled the rip
Pharma / Healthcare	0.95	1.8%	-0.70%	Bearish — orderly decline; positioning unremarkable
Consumer	0.75	2.0%	-1.75%	Bearish — orderly decline; positioning unremarkable

Bloomberg News Summary

Amazon & Apple Both Report Earnings | The Close 7/30/2026 (aired 2026-07-30) · Full-transcript summary · watch on YouTube

Key takeaways

- Microsoft drives historic market rally: The Nasdaq 100 surged 3% with Microsoft up 17.5%, marking its largest single-day market value gain ever ($500B+) after earnings showed AI spending ROI. Only 35% of S&P 500 names traded higher—highlighting extreme market narrowness.
- Amazon beats on AWS growth: Amazon shares jumped 8% after-hours as AWS revenue grew 36.7% year-over-year (fastest in 18 quarters), with AI business exceeding $25B run rate. Free cash flow turned negative at -$7.6B trailing 12 months.
- Apple reports mixed results: Shares fell 4% after-hours despite beating EPS/revenue estimates. iPhone revenue ($54B) beat, but services revenue ($30.7B) missed. Greater China revenue came in light. Conference call focus on memory costs and CEO transition.
- Credit markets widen on AI buildout costs: Spreads expanding in data center/AI-related credit as hyperscaler capex approaches $750B this year, $1.25T next year (Goldman/Morgan Stanley). Some high-yield bonds down 15 points since mid-June.
- Fed uncertainty drives yield curve steepening: 30-year yields above 5.2% following Fed meeting as markets question transparency under new Chairman Warsh. GDP came in at 1.5%, softer than expected.

Guest views

- Bruce Richards, CXC Marathon: Data center debt offers "wonderful opportunity at much wider spreads"—supply/demand imbalance creates excess returns despite solid fundamentals for winners with power/offtake secured.
- Vlad Tenev, Robinhood CEO: Prediction markets now "fastest growing business in our history" at mid-hundreds of millions annualized; 13 business lines exceed $100M, with Trump accounts reaching 7M children enrolled.
- Brian Niccol, Starbucks CEO: Turnaround showing "strength across all income groups"—throughput improvements and store remodels ($150K each) driving transaction growth without closures.
- Gil Luria, D.A. Davidson: Amazon's 37% AWS growth "nothing short of remarkable" on $170B base; Anthropic partnership driving acceleration similar to Google's results.
- Horace Dediu, Asymco: Apple "probably the greatest story in computing"—positioned to distribute AI technologies to 2.5B users without massive infrastructure investment, explains valuation premium.

Analyst Summary

Semiconductor Rally Powers Broad Market Gains

U.S. equities surged Friday, capping a volatile week with a powerful rally driven by semiconductor and AI infrastructure stocks. The Nasdaq 100 jumped 3.36%, while the S&P 500 and Dow gained 1.66% and 1.19%, respectively. The VIX plunged 17.28% to 17.09, signaling a sharp easing in near-term volatility expectations following recent turbulence.

Memory and Chip Stocks Lead Historic Gains

The technology rally was dominated by semiconductor names, particularly memory and storage companies. SanDisk surged 26%, marking one of the day's most spectacular moves among large-cap tech stocks. Micron soared 18.4%, while Intel (+11.3%), AMD (+13.0%), and Coherent (+12.2%) all posted double-digit gains. The memory sector as a whole jumped 16.9%, fueled by what positioning data suggests was a short-squeeze rebound after bearish bets accumulated during the recent selloff (put/call ratio of 1.33, short interest 5.7%).

Microsoft's extraordinary 15.5% gain—adding over $500 billion in market value in its largest single-day increase ever—continued to reverberate through markets. The move followed earnings that demonstrated tangible returns on AI spending, validating the broader infrastructure buildout theme. Amazon extended gains (+3.9%) on AWS growth accelerating to 36.7% year-over-year, the fastest pace in 18 quarters.

Cross-Currents and Divergence

Not all mega-cap tech participated. Meta fell 7.95%, extending an 11-session decline that has Wall Street questioning the company's AI monetization strategy. Apple slipped 1.41% on supply chain concerns despite beating earnings estimates. The sharp divergence underscored extreme market narrowness—only 35% of S&P 500 constituents traded higher despite broad index gains.

Interest Rates and Credit Markets

The 10-year Treasury yield rose 4 basis points to 4.66%, continuing the steepening trend as markets digest policy uncertainty under new Fed Chairman Warsh. Credit spreads in data center and AI-related bonds have widened notably, with some high-yield issues down 15 points since mid-June as investors weigh hyperscaler capex approaching $750 billion this year and $1.25 trillion in 2027.

Commodities and Crypto

Crude oil declined 1.46% to $82.37, while gold was nearly flat at $4,156. Bitcoin advanced 1.37% to $65,070, continuing its recent climb amid risk-on sentiment. Currency markets were relatively quiet, with the dollar modestly firmer against the euro and sterling.
